

NANNY OF THE YEAR NOMINEE

2017

SAMANTHA

Sam is smart, in tune with what kids need, and infinitely patient. She does research about practices and products, keeps community with other nannies to stay on top of both relationships and 'best-ofs' that we should be aware of. She has a clear sense of boundaries with children and encourages them to stand on their own two feet, and also freely shows affection and encouragement with them. She's ridiculously organized (putting me to shame daily!), tracks everything for school and preschool, helps me prioritize needs for the home and the kids, does the Costco runs, and cleans the kitchen every morning before the day starts! She is rarely content to just have a day at home (but is smart enough to take those days when she knows the kids need them), and makes use of memberships to the Zoo, Science Center, and Children's Museum, takes them to parks galore, organizes play dates with friends, and more. On top of which, she has a culinary degree, so my kids are learning to make the best chocolate chip cookies in town. Are you exhausted just reading all that?? Cause I am! But she literally does all this everyday!
